

Thanks and Have Fun Running the Country: Kids' Letters to President Obama

By Jory John

McSweeney's Publishing. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Thanks and Have Fun Running the Country: Kids' Letters to President Obama, Jory John, A few days after the election of Barack Obama, kids around the country were asked to provide advice and guidance to their new president. In this collection, there's loads advice for the president, often hilarious, sometimes heartfelt, and occasionally downright practical. Students from all over the country reach out to the 44th president, speaking to the issues closest to their hearts, relating their life stories, and asking for help. Topics include the economy, education, war, global warming, race relations in America and immigration. The book also includes letters about snow cones, puppies, microwavable burritos, dinosaur projects, multiplication and the ghost of Abraham Lincoln, reportedly haunting a White House bedroom. Proceeds benefit 826 National, a network of nonprofit writing and tutoring centers around the country.

Dear Mr. President Obama, I enjoyed reading the letters the kids wrote to you and I hope you liked them too. I hope you like living in the White House and you're not afraid of Abraham Lincoln's ghost in your bedroom. Congratulations on being the president of the world! You have young kids fascinated with the role of President and living in the White House, listing off details about themselves oblivious to what a President would find interesting (except that maybe Nintendo DS's were in full swing), and you have the older kids that are already turning into mini-activists. While most of the kids' concerns are simplified views of news buzzwords (please stop pollution and war), it's fun seeing the state of the world through the eyes of these kids.
