Description:

All of Louis thoughts are very important to him. In fact, his thoughts are so important to him that when he has something to say, his words begin to wiggle, and then they do the jiggle, then his tongue pushes all of his important words up against his teeth and he erupts, or interrupts others. His mouth is a volcano! My Mouth Is A Volcano takes an empathetic approach to the habit of interrupting and teaches children a witty technique to capture their rambunctious thoughts and words for expression at an appropriate time. Told from Louis' perspective, this story provides parents, teachers, and counselors with an entertaining way to teach children the value of respecting others by listening and waiting for their turn to speak.

This year I made a cute little craftivity to extend our learning after this read-aloud. We always talk about why it is important not to interrupt others and what we can do if we feel like we might EXPLODEEEE with words while someone else is speaking. Since I love to chatchatchat, this concept is very familiar to me and I see little Susan Moranâ€™s all over my classroom at the beginning of the year! Our words are very important to us you know!!!
