BIBLIOGRAPHY OF WORKS ON CESSATIONISM

Compiled by Dennis M. Swanson
Seminary Librarian

The voluminous literature in the field of spiritual gifts has grown even more in recent years, especially in the area of new hermeneutical models proposed by charismatic scholars. This bibliography represents the collected research of contributors to this issue of TMSJ as well as some additional material not cited in those articles. It is not exhaustive but rather suggestive for those wishing to do additional study. Particular attention should be paid to the two extensive bibliographies by Charles Edwin Jones in the section on “Reference Works.”

The bibliography is divided into five sections for easier reference. The sections are (1) Reference Works, (2) Systematic Theologies and Biblical Commentaries, (3) Monographs and Multi-Author Works, (4) Journal and Periodical Articles, and (5) Theses, Dissertations, and Unpublished Materials.

Reference Works (including lexical entries)

Systematic Theologies and Biblical Commentaries

Monographs and Multi-Author Works

Burdick, Donald W. Tongues: To Speak or Not to Speak. Chicago: Moody, 1969.

Journal and Periodical Articles

Bibliography

Theses, Dissertations and Other Unpublished Materials

Cessationism versus continuationism involves a Christian theological dispute as to whether spiritual gifts (Apostolic) remain available to the church, or whether their operation ceased with the Apostolic Age of the church (or soon thereafter). The cessationist doctrine arose in the Protestant Reformation, initially in response to claims of Roman Catholic miracles. Modern discussions focus more on the use of charismatic gifts in the Pentecostal and Charismatic movements. Bibliography of Works on Cessationism. Dennis M. Swanson. | Volume 14, Number 2 (Fall 2003). But yet I know the Bible tells me that miraculous gifts have ceased, though. Perhaps for us, it is a matter of perspective. In either case, here is my Biblical case for Cessationism (The ceasing of miraculous gifts given to the apostles). Tongues and prophecy have ceased ~ 1 Corinthians 13:8-13. Verse 8 says, “whether there be prophecies, they shall fail;” and verse 8 says, “whether there be tongues, they shall cease;” The question is when do tongues and prophecies cease?